

Highs and Lows
from the pages of Daniel P. Smith's book

On the Job

Behind the Stars of the Chicago Police Department

- ✪ Disturbance. Assault in Progress. Selling Narcotics...Clock an eight-hour shift in the 11th District. (pp. 10–11)
- ✪ Creating disorder or preserving it? Confront the CPD's legacy in the wake of the 1968 Democratic National Convention. (p. 12)
- ✪ Some people would rather have root canal. On the front lines with the cop who says, "Sometimes I wish I was a dentist." (p. 26)
- ✪ On patrol with CPD at the Lager Beer Riot, the Railroad Strike, and the Haymarket Affair. (pp. 53–54)
- ✪ Moonshine, murder and bribery: How CPD helped make Capone king. (pp. 58–60)
- ✪ Hats off to CAPS! (p. 66)
- ✪ A Miracle Moon shines on former cop and current Chicago firefighter. (pp. 74–76)
- ✪ Walk the beat with one of Chicago's most decorated officers. (pp. 79–86)
- ✪ Meet the man who would be superintendent. (pp. 87–94)
- ✪ How to earn a street degree, walk a blue line, and tell your OPS from your SOS. (pp.102–114)
- ✪ Dish with Chicago's first female detective. (pp. 115–121)
- ✪ Officer. Priest. King. The many roles of a Chicago cop. (pp. 123–128)
- ✪ Run with the big dogs in the K9 unit. (pp. 137–142)
- ✪ Grab a shovel: The weighty push of politics on police matters and the burdens some cops face. (pp. 149–160)
- ✪ Baby/Blue: Juggling motherhood and police work. (pp. 161–168)
- ✪ Black, White and Blue—One officer's take on race and the CPD. (pp. 175–181)
- ✪ "Father Mike's" faith in the star and Tom Nangle delivers meaning. (pp. 183–196)